WHAT IS DEVELOPMENT STUDIES ?

A multidisciplinary program, Development Studies examines the patterns, practices, policies and theories associated with inequalities in world development. The discipline pays particular attention to the relationships between “developed” and “developing” societies, the roles played by various institutions within them and their effects on processes of social, political, economic and environmental change.

WHY STUDY DEVELOPMENT STUDIES?

- People who are concerned about human rights, social and economic inequalities, and who want to make a difference in the world are drawn to Development Studies.
- Globally and in Pakistan, there is a need for suitably qualified and skilled people to help redress these imbalances.
